

ACLS Humanities E-Book Collection

The online collection developed by scholars

Launched in 2002, the American Council of Learned Societies Humanities E-Book collection (ACLS HEB) is a digital collection of over 5,500 core humanities and social science titles from over 120 publishers. Books in the collection have been recommended and reviewed by scholars and constituent learned societies of ACLS.

Prestigious Collection

Curated by ACLS scholars, the collection delivers foundational backlist titles in the humanities and social sciences with 150-200 titles added yearly.

Collaborative

Michigan Publishing has partnered with libraries to ensure that ACLS HEB is both competitive and appealing in scope, pricing, and licensing.

Enriched User Experience

Fulcrum provides users with the best possible reading experience, including an easy-to-navigate, accessible e-reader and PDF downloads.

The ACLS Humanities E-Book Collection is available through institutional subscription through an exclusive partnership with LYRASIS. LYRASIS is proud to be a part of this entirely not for profit and mission driven initiative, developed and supported by the scholarly and library communities.

This is a global offer. LYRASIS membership is not a requirement to participate.

University of Michigan Press Ebook Collection

A growing collection of over 1,500 academic works across the humanities and social sciences

The University of Michigan Press Ebook Collection (UMP EBC) is a comprehensive collection of scholarly electronic books for sale to libraries. The University of Michigan Press, a library-based publisher, seeks to advance the values of the library community. The collection features the highest quality peer-reviewed, faculty-selected scholarship in the arts, humanities, and social sciences, with particular strength in political science, performing arts, American Studies, classics and media studies. The Press also has vibrant lists in East Asian, African, and German studies.

Comprehensive

The UMP EBC presents complete coverage of all scholarly titles published by the University of Michigan Press for any new calendar year, with at least 80 titles added annually.

Library-friendly

University of Michigan Press has partnered closely with libraries to ensure that UMP EBC is both competitive and appealing with respect to scope, pricing, and licensing.

Enriched User Experience

Ebooks are presented on Fulcrum, an open-source platform developed by Michigan Publishing, which facilitates the full richness of a book with integration of digital media.

The University of Michigan Press Ebook Collection is available for purchase through an exclusive partnership with LYRASIS. LYRASIS is proud to be a part of this entirely not for profit and mission-driven initiative, developed and supported by the scholarly and library communities.

University of Michigan Press Ebook Collection Fund to Mission

The University of Michigan Press is transitioning to an open access model called Fund to Mission.

The University of Michigan Press has been taking steps to develop a publishing program that aligns with their mission and commitment to diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility.

The MISSION

- Inspire the leaders of parent institutions to financially support their presses in more sustainable and open approaches to monograph publishing.
- Expand inclusive, equitable access to high-quality humanities and qualitative social science scholarship for diverse, global audiences.
- Increase the number of accessible, open learning resources for students that are instantly available, downloadable, and free of DRM restrictions.
- Expand the demonstrated opportunity for increased visibility and impact that open access provides to all authors, without the inequities of “pay to publish”.
- Demonstrate support for a non-profit infrastructure and sustainable business model, on a platform that already hosts other university press content and collections.

The MODEL

The Press is seeking a total of $250,000 in annual funding from the library community as it transitions to open. This amount acts as a match to internal funding from the University of Michigan. Libraries are invited to continue to participate in the University of Michigan Press Ebook Collection (UMP EBC) by way of our current fair pricing. However, rather than only funding a paywalled collection, an increasing percentage of titles become open access.

By committing to purchase one of the UMP EBC packages, libraries:

- Support the conversion to open access of at least half of University of Michigan Press scholarly monographs in 2022.
- Receive perpetual access to the remaining restricted frontlist titles and term access to the backlist, which will otherwise remain restricted.
- Support the sustainability and continued development of the community-led Fulcrum platform and integrated open source tools.

REQUEST for LIBRARY SUPPORT

Every library investment in UMP EBC supports the Press's transition to open access. Depending on your library's collection development priorities and current resource allocations, we invite you to purchase one or more of the collections.

An additional 5% discount will be applied to commitment of any purchase option initiated by June 30, 2021.

2021 Frontlist

Purchase of the 2021 restricted-access frontlist (minimum of 80 restricted access titles + 10 additional OA). Libraries will own the restricted titles in perpetuity and have term-access during 2021 to the backlist.
